STOP THE CORPORATE CENSORSHIP OF MUSIC!!!
JOIN OUR BOYCOTT OF THE WAL-MART CHAIN AND OTHER MUSIC RETAILERS THAT RESTRICT YOUR ACCESS OF MUSIC

As consumers who believe in the American values of free speech and expression, we oppose all corporate efforts directed toward curtailing the sales of artistic materials that may be found "offensive" by some segment of the population. As believers in the free market economy, it is our stance that if the overwhelming percentage of the populace finds offense in certain products, then these products would naturally disappear from the marketplace through lack of sales. It is something completely different when very popular forms of music are made to disappear by corporate efforts such as Wal-Mart's to restrict content and availability to the public. This is no longer the public making choices for themselves. This is a company dictating standards from the top down. It is our stance that those that find offense in a product can always choose to not purchase it, but to deny the product from those that do not find offense is completely un-American and poses a great threat to all artistic freedoms when applied collectively by companies controlling the majority of music sales.

We feel Wal-Mart's and other company's lack of faith in the free market economy to decide what is and what is not "offensive" is nothing more than an attempt to impose their moral convictions upon the entire music industry and in so doing, impose their moral convictions on as much of the general population as possible. We acknowledge that they have the right to run their business as they see fit, but also realize and intend to exert our power as consumers by choosing to not shop at stores that impose any such restrictions.

My signature below is a statement to these companies that I strongly resent having my choices made for me by any self-appointed moral guardians in the corporate community and a solemn pledge that none of these stores will ever see another dime of my spending money until all such restrictive policies are eliminated from their stores.
